

Immediate Release

January 20, 2009

3 p.m.

Media Contacts:

Deborah Cox, VA State Police (804) 674-2843 deborah.cox@vsp.virginia.gov

Mike Salmon, VDOT (571)205-3613 mike.salmon@vdot.virginia.gov

Jennifer Pickett, VDRPT (804) 786-7432 jennifer.pickett@drpt.virginia.gov

VIRGINIA 5 P.M. TRAFFIC CONDITION UPDATE

FAIRFAX, Va. – Virginia State Police has re-opened I-395 northbound and I-66 eastbound to authorized vehicles only. Both interstate lanes were temporarily closed due to pedestrian traffic crossing the 14th Street Bridge and the Roosevelt Bridge. The HOV-3 lanes for I-395 are open southbound and the HOV-2 lanes on I-66 are open westbound.

There are currently no significant delays to report on transit systems serving Virginia. As of 3:45 pm, the Federal Triangle metro station has reopened and Judiciary Square Station is closed for the rest of the night.

Metro reports that more than 656,800 people have used the Metro system today. As of 4 pm, Virginia Railway Express reports that more than 18,000 people have used the commuter rail service.

As a reminder, VRE service is reserved for people who have special VRE inauguration tickets, so tickets are not available for purchase on VRE today

The Virginia state police website has information on available transit options and transit service back to park and ride lots at www.vsp.virginia.gov